Ganja is the second largest city of Azerbaijan, a monument of ancient culture, the industrial center of western Azerbaijan. This city, which played a large role in the history of Azerbaijan, was located at the intersection of caravan roads. The country's history is permeated with the significance of this city, which for centuries was the capital of the country and the trade hub, where merchants from various countries flowed, traded in silk, fur, spices, Damascus steel and other medieval treasures. No wonder that the name of the city in translation means "treasure". At the entrance to the city, travelers are greeted by the mausoleum of the poet Nizami. Ganja is inextricably bounded with the name of this poet. The mausoleum is still a place of pilgrimage for poets from around the world.

Arriving in the city. Check-in at the hotel.

Truly, an unforgettable visit to the architectural ensemble of Sheikh Bahauddin. This monument of the XVII century architecture includes a caravanserai, Shah Abbas mosque (Juma mosque), medieval bath (Cheyak-Hamam).

The Juma mosque was built during the time of Shah Abbas, its architect Sheikh Bahauddin was an astronomer, so the mosque has one interesting feature. At noon, the shadow falling on the western wall of the building disappears. This means that the time of the midday prayer has come.

"Cheyak-Hamam" (bath) consists of two communicating halls. This bath was very popular among the citizens and worked until 1963. Today "Cheyak-Hamam" is a cultural monument. Since 2002 it has been under the protection of UNESCO. Bottle House - one of the most amazing sights of Ganja. This two-story house is decorated with approximately 50,000 glass bottles and stones brought from different parts of the former USSR.

In the evening, guests can take a walk in a park in the city center - residents carefully preserve these ancient trees of the 16th century.

They reflect the history of this region for almost 15 thousand years - from the end of the Upper Paleolithic age to the Middle Ages. Today, Azerbaijani scientists have identified, described and studied more than 4,000 petroglyphs (rock paintings in stone carving techniques) and this important work still continues.
